

Earn while you learn
with an Apprenticeship

REWARDS

Great employers.
Great opportunities.
Great prospects.

Apprenticeships deliver.

Get ahead with Apprenticeships

The world is changing fast and to get ahead these days you need to have some top notch skills. But you don't need to sit in a classroom all day to get them.

An Apprenticeship is a real job with training so you can earn while you learn and pick up some recognised qualifications as you go.

If you live in England, are over 16 and not in full time education you can apply. They take between one and four years to complete and cover 1,200 job roles, in a range of industries, from things like engineering to financial advice, veterinary nursing to accountancy.

To learn more of the details about what you can expect to get paid and what types of Apprenticeships are out there, scan the QR code or visit apprenticeships.org.uk

Key benefits

Progress your career

Employers recognise and value Apprenticeships so you'll fly through the ranks.

Learn job specific skills

Learn from the masters and work alongside experienced staff to gain top notch skills.

DEVELOPER

Achieve sought after qualifications

Apprenticeships are the gold standard for work-based learning.

Earn a salary

An average apprentices' wage is £170 per week*.

Top quality training

Get 'on the job' experience and 'off the job' training.

Your career

Employers really value Apprenticeships. They know if you have one that you've got the skills (to pay the bills!) so you'll shoot through the ranks and your career will progress rapidly.

You'll feel the rewards in your pockets too. People with an Advanced Level Apprenticeship earn, on average, over £100,000* more than those without, over the course of their career.

From then on, the world is your oyster. You can collect UCAS points, study for Technical Certificates, go on to higher education at college or uni or carry on working, get promoted and take on the world!

There are 3 types of Apprenticeship you can apply for depending on your current skills and qualifications:

- Intermediate Level Apprenticeship (level 2)
- Advanced Level Apprenticeship (level 3)
- Higher Apprenticeship (level 4 or above).

Robyn Keating —
Client Adviser
Bluefin Insurance services

I began working for Bluefin as a temp. Six months later I was offered a full time position and then went on to join their Apprenticeship programme. It gives me the best of both worlds: I'm learning about my job and the insurance industry, and I'm getting hands on experience too. It's a real boost for my career.

Great careers.
Great support.
Great training.
Apprenticeships deliver.

Nisar Ahmed —
Electrician
Incommunities Group Ltd

I work in a team rewiring people's homes.

I've got a mentor and a manager who gives me advice and support, and teaches me new skills every day. At the end of my four-year Apprenticeship I'll be a qualified electrician and nearer to my ultimate goal of a successful career in construction.

Great futures.
Great advice.
Great training.

Your employer and learning provider

Your employer provides your 'on the job' training and pays your wages. You will work alongside them and learn from some of the best in the business.

A learning provider is usually a college or training organisation who look after the rest of your training. You can complete this 'off the job' training on day release or over a number of days in a block.

Your Apprenticeship will cover all bases; the hands on experience and the training in all other aspects of the job, so you'll be the complete article!
